Toll Brothers City Living Hosts “Empire Of Glass” Art Exhibition By John D’agostino At 400 Park Avenue

Toll Brothers City Living, the urban development division of Toll Brothers, Inc., the nation’s leading builder of luxury homes, recently hosted artist John D’Agostino’s “Empire of Glass” exhibition curated by art consultant Emily Santangelo of Emily Fine art at 400 Park Avenue South, the a new 40-story hybrid rental/condominium designed by Pritzker-prize winning architect Christian de Portzamparc. The evening featured striking views, exquisite art, and delicious appetizers.

D’Agostino is known for his unique style of re-purposing stained glass and other mediums to create entirely new pieces. His work was shown in an expansive three-bedroom apartment with sweeping city views.

Condominium residences at 400 Park Avenue South range in size from studios to four-bedrooms, and begin at $1.3 million. Nestled in the popular NoMad neighborhood, the residences feature gorgeous open floor plans, floor-to-ceiling windows, solid white oak floors, and remarkable river and city views. Completion is expected in fall 2015.

Amenities abound at the building, including round-the-clock concierge services, a massive fitness center with a yoga room and indoor lap pool with Jacuzzi, steam room and sauna, as well as a residents’ lounge, screening room, golf simulator, and children’s playroom. A sky lounge on the building’s 27th floor features excellent views of the city. For more information please visit www.400pas.com or contact the sales office at 212.981.8542.*
